NUMB. 3164

MONDAY, APRIL 23, 1744.

Since our last arriv'd a Mail from France.

Conſtantinople, February 23.

THE Advices publiſhed by our Miniſtry here, are not to be depended on; and as the Scene of Action lies in Countries in which Foreign Miniſters have no Correſpondents, we are almoſt totally in the Dark. It is, however, certain, that the Diſturbances continue in Egypt, where, if the Rebels but agree amongſt themſelves, our Power muſt ultimately give Way. As to the Shah Nadir, he has ſtrong Party againſt him in Perſia, which, in reality, is his Conqueſts; becauſe, if he were once at a diſtance with his Army, there is no manner of Doubt but all Things would run into Confuſion at Home, eſpecially if we ſtrenuouſly aſſiſt the Shah we have lately reſtored. On the other Hand, if Kouli-Kan can but perſuade us to abandon him, he will inſtantly cruſh the Malecontents in Perſia, and then fall on us again.

Peterſburg, March 27. On Sunday laſt Prince Repnin Governor of this City during the Abſence of Field-Marſhal Lacy) received an Expreſs from Prince Dolgoruki, Sub-Governor of Riga, with Advice, that Lord Hyndford, Ambaſſador Extraordinary from the King of Great Britain, arrived there on the 20th Inſtant, and intended to proceed on his Journey hither the 23d. His Excellency is not expected here before the End of this Month, or the Beginning of the next. In the mean time, Prince Repnin has ſent Orders for 60 Horſes to be kept ready at every Stage, for his Lordſhip's Uſe, on his Journey from hence to Moſcow. By the laſt Accounts from Moſcow we hear, that the young Princeſs of Zerbſt was not perfectly recovered of her Indiſpoſition.

Vienna, April 18. There is News here of the actual Poſſeſſion of Nice by the Spaniards and French; but, as it will be ſome Time before the Arrival of their Artillery, we are not to expect to hear of their Attempts upon the Intrenchments of the Piedmonteſe theſe ten or twelve Days. The Spaniſh Troops are ſaid to amount to no more than 17 or 18,000 Men; and the French to 7 or 800. The Troops in Bavaria are in Motion, and the News we had of Marſhal Traun's being at Munich, is not verified. The Emperor's Troops are to be poſted at Philipsburg, and are ſuppoſed not to exceed 15,000 Men.

Dreſden, April 24. M. Langſmidt, Aulick Councillor, and Reſident here from, the King of Pruſſia, arrived lately with ſome Members of our Privy-Council in relation to the Methods neceſſary to be taken, for the ſecurity of this Electorate. On the 19th, there went thro' this City, an Expreſs from Verſailles for Bohemia; which, conſidering there is a War declared on both Sides, ſurprizes us exceedingly; yet he was permitted to paſs unmoleſted, for which, no doubt, our Miniſtry have their Reaſons, tho' they are not communicated to the Publick. M. Lutrig, Colonel of our Engineers, is returned hither from the Army, and is gone to inſpect all the Fortified Places of this Electorate. A conſiderable Train of Artillery is expected here daily from Torgau, which is to ſerve a Camp that is now forming in the Neighbourhood of Oſnabrugh.

Breſlau, April 25. According to all Appearance, the Turks have no Thoughts of Peace. We are convinced, they intend to join the Imperialiſts with a Body of Troops in the Neighbourhood of Philipsburgh, to awe the Auſtrians, and prevent their ſending great Corps into the Low Countries. The Army in Flanders will form the Siege of Mons, and Count Maurice of Saxony, with his Army now at Givet, will march, as is given out, directly into Weſtphalia. The French Party here talk of nothing but conquering this Power, humbling that, and giving all to their Terms. Our Elector ſaid t'other Day after Dinner, 'That the Seaſon reſembled the Reſolutions of Councils; for the Mornings promiſed fair, but never depended on them ſo far, as to go out without a Cloke, would be ſure to be wet to the Skin.'

Amſterdam, April 28. We hear from Riga and Narva, that thoſe Towns have ſuffered inexpreſſible Damages by the late ſudden Inundations that have happened in thoſe Parts, and particularly, in their Magazines of Naval Stores.

The Hague, April 28. By Letters from Paris there is Advice that M. de Court was returned into Toulon Harbour without any Spaniſh Ships, and that Admiral Matthews had taken up his old Station, off of the Iſlands of Hieres. Other Letters mention an Embarkation of 2000 Men for Monaco, having been forced, by ſome of his Britannick Majeſty's Frigates cruizing off Villafranca, into St. Tropez; but add, that the Spaniards having made themſelves Maſters of a Poſt called Soſpello, and of another Defile, were preparing every Thing for attacking the King of Sardinia's Intrenchments upon the 14th Inſtant; ſo that News from theſe Parts is expected here with the greateſt Impatience. The ſame Letters add, that the French King was preparing to ſet out immediately for his Army in Flanders. Letters from Madrid mention the King of Spain's being very much indiſpoſed. It is alſo written from Paris, that the Reſolution was taken there, to declare War immediately againſt the Queen of Hungary. M. Fenelon ſet out from hence Yeſterday, for the Army, by the Way of Liege.

Extract from the Paris Alamain.

Paris, April 29. 'The Day before Yeſterday the King ſet out for La Muette, from whence his Majeſty went Yeſterday to Chantilly, and is this Day to be at Peronne; from whence he will ſet out To-morrow for the Army, and will review the Troops in the Field the 1ſt of May; and will afterwards put himſelf at the Head of his Army, in order to open the Trenches before Mons; every Thing being entirely ready for that important Enterpize.

His Majeſty has named for his Aid de Camps the Prince de Soubize, and the Dukes of Richelieu and de Pequigny. All the Relays for the Uſe of the King ſet out on the 23d from hence; and all his Equipages ſet out likewiſe the ſame Day.

'The Queen, after the King's Departure, will go to Trianon, and Monſeigneur, the Dauphin, to Meudon, where they will continue till the Apartments for the Royal Family at the Thuilleries are fitted up; at which they are inceſſantly at work.

His Majeſty, before his Departure, named the Princeſs of Conti to be Sur-Intendant of the Queen's Houſehold; Madam, the Ducheſs of Chateroux, Sur-Intendant of that of the Dauphineſs; and Madam, the Ducheſs de Chatillon, Dame of Honour to that Princeſs.

'The Infant Don Philip has made a Preſent to the Prince of Conti, of a very fine Tent, lined with Crimſon Damask, and laced with Gold, valued at 60,000 Livres.

'From St. Malo's they write, that 60 Privateers failed from that Port within theſe few Days, to cruize upon the Engliſh.

'We learn from Antibes, that the Deſertion among the Piedmonteſe Troops is very great, and that they have ſeized ſome of the Swiſs Regiment of Vigier, in order to make Examples of them. Orders have been given, for throwing a Bridge of Boats over the Varo, that we may ſecure the Paſſage of that River, in caſe the Snow's diſſolving ſhould make it overflow. The Enemy, within theſe 10 or 12 Days, have tranſported Proviſions and Ammunition to Oncillia, and we wait only the Arrival of M. de Court, to force the Enemies to render.

'It is confirmed, that the Prince of Conti has actually forced Montalban, and left no Communication with Villafranca.

'We hear, that the City of Monr is actually inveſted.' Actions 1932.

IRELAND.

Extract of a Letter from Wexford, dated April 2.

'The great Noiſe the Verdict obtained in the County of Meath, by James Anneſly, Eſq; againſt Richard Earl of Angleſey, made in the World, and the Oddneſs of the Caſe, raiſed my Curioſity, and ingaged me to go to the laſt Aſſizes held at Wexford, in Expectation of hearing the whole Caſe. I muſt inform you, that Mr. Thomas Cole, one of the Tenants of the Angleſey Eſtate in the County of Wexford, having, after the Verdict, attorned Tenant to James Anneſly, Eſq; Richard Earl of Angleſey brought an Ejectment upon the Title, the Leaſe, under which Cole held, having expired ſome Time ago; and tho' James Anneſly was ſerved with the Ejectment, yet Cole only took Defence. I did not make any Doubt but that the Trial would have proceeded, ſince a Defence was taken by him. For unleſs the Earl could have ſhewn that Arthur late Lord Altham (whoſe lawful Son James Anneſly ſays he is) died without Male Iſſue, he muſt have been defeated. Mr. Cole was called, but did not appear, and a Jury was ſworn, and Cole was again called to confeſs Leaſe, Entry, and Ouſter, but would not appear; upon which there was a Nonſuit. This declining to go to Trial, in the County where James Anneſly, Eſq; ſays he was born, and where the greateſt Part of the Angleſey Eſtate lies, hath not only taken off the Impreſſion the Verdict had in it upon my Mind, but hath alſo ſatisfy'd me, that the Pretenſions of Mr. Anneſly are not founded in Truth: For, as I am informed, James Anneſly, ſome ſhort Time before the laſt Aſſizes, and after Cole had taken Defence, filed a Bill of 208 Sheets of Paper againſt the Earl, and ſeveral others, charging his Birth to have been at Dunmaine in the County of Wexford, and a Matter publick and notorious there, and prayed by his Bill an Injunction; and when a Motion was made on Behalf of the Earl, for Liberty to go to Trial, notwithſtanding the Injunction, it was ſtrongly oppoſed by James Anneſly's Counſel. And tho' James Anneſly had neglected to take Defence, and had no Right then to take it, yet the Earl's Counſel then offer'd to ſuffer James Anneſly, who was preſent in Court, to take Defence; and upon the Trial in Ejectment, to go into no other Queſtion, than whether James Anneſly was the lawful Son of Arthur late Lord Altham; but that Offer was not accepted. What Reaſons could induce James to take thoſe ſeveral Steps to avoid a Trial, in the County where he ſays his Birth is well known, I cannot imagine; except his being conſcious, that his Witneſſes are better known in that Country than elſewhere, and that the Reputation of that Country is, that there was no lawful Son of Arthur late Lord Altham; and that he is well known by ſeveral Perſons, who would, and ought to obtain Credit before a Jury, who know, and are acquainted with their Characters. This I am certain of, that a Trial before a Jury of the County where the Birth is ſaid to have been, and where the Witneſſes and their Characters muſt be known, is more likely to bring about a full Diſcovery of the Truth, than a Trial in a County where Arthur late Lord Altham never did live nor reſide, and which is above Seventy Miles diſtant from the Place where the Birth is ſaid to be. Dunmain, the Place of the ſuppoſed Birth, lies within Three Miles of the Town of New Roſs, where Arthur late Lord Altham was at the Time of the ſuppoſed Birth; and for many Years, both before and after, in Poſſeſſion of an Eſtate of the yearly Value of 500 l. And if any ſuch Birth there was, it muſt have been known to the whole Country, at leaſt to the Tenants of New Roſs, many of whom I am convinced are not Strangers to James Anneſly; but can, and will, give a ſure and honeſt Account of him. The Poſt is juſt going out, ſo ſhall ſay no more, but that I am, Sir, Your's, &c.'
